

Architect Wood Advocate Award

The Wood Advocate Awards recognize decision-making individuals who regularly specify, design or build commercial, industrial, and institutional projects with wood. These awards acknowledge those individuals who contribute to the selection of wood in a project, who overcome objections related to wood use in a project, and who lead the way for future projects in wood.

The Architect Award will be presented to an individual architect or architectural firm who contributes to the selection of wood in a project, overcomes objections to the use of wood in a project, and leads the way for future projects in wood.
