

Engineer Wood Advocate Award

The Wood Advocate Awards recognize decision-making individuals who regularly specify, design or build commercial, industrial, and institutional projects with wood. These awards acknowledge those individuals who contribute to the selection of wood in a project, who overcome objections related to wood use in a project, and who lead the way for future projects in wood.

The Engineer Award will be presented to an individual engineer or engineering firm for the creation of an innovative structure, of any building type, that uses new technologies or existing technology in a new way in order to create a wood solution that advances the use of wood in the project, leading the way for future projects in wood.
